CHARACTER LESSONS THAT PROFIT

Ron Newton is the president of Peak Training Solutions, a values-based human development company. He founded Peak after directing a wilderness camp ministry that helped over 1,200 troubled youth.

Ron applies amazing stories of character development 'on the camp trail' to today's business performance challenges. His belief? Business improvement comes through improving personal values and character.

Ron contributes to a number of publications, is the author of No Jerks On The Job (PenlandScott Publishers, 2010), and is a popular speaker at corporate and industry events.

He is a 1978 graduate of Dallas Theological Seminary.

Speaker

Ron can provide your organization with:

- A keynote speaker who can also facilitate a discussion or an interactive breakout session.
- An engaging presenter who can "go deep" and share life-changing insight.
- A resource who can provide a totally interactive learning experience.

When you get Ron, you get an expert in improving human behavior who brings a challenging, entertaining, customized message that will:

✓ Introduce you to a form of 'personal transparency' that reaps many benefits

Ron introduces the new concept of 'uphill transparency' as a way of improving the work team and customer relations

✓ Provide you with a new perspective of accountability that profits, not just punishes

Ron shares how 'internal accountability' can profit a business more than traditional 'external accountability'

✓ Defines for you a truly compassionate culture that resonates with workers and customers

Ron challenges you to move beyond mere sympathy and empathy, investing instead in loyalty-producing compassion

The Result?

A greater commitment of the listener to continuous improvement through character growth
